Morning Oregonian.

VOL. XVII.—NO. 110. PORTLAND, OREGON: TUESDAY, JUNE 12, 1877. PRICE—TEN CENTS.

GENERAL NEWS.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.

Fire.

AUBURN, N. Y., June 11.—A fire this morning in the dry house of the Auburn woolen mills destroyed 300,000 pounds of wool; loss, $100,000; insured. Three hundred persons are thrown out of employment.

Railway Washed Out.

MEMPHIS, June 11.—The Appeal's special from Holly Springs reports the Mississippi Central badly washed out. A freight train went into a culvert near Hickory Valley yesterday killing the engineer, brakeman and another train hand.

The Missouri Rise.

ST. LOUIS, June 11.—Latest account from the West says the river between Kansas City and this point is still rising and doing great damage. The water is higher than at any time since the flood of '49. The town of Harlem opposite Kansas City is six feet under water and likely to be entirely destroyed. People living on the bottoms along the river are moving to the bluffs.

Senator Ferry Better.

DETROIT, June 11.—A telegram received from Grand Haven this evening announces that Senator Ferry's symptoms are more favorable.

Extensive Burglary.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Early this morning burglars entered the jewelry store of Tapachtmeyer & Co., by cutting through the walls from an adjoining store and carried of $10,000 worth of diamonds and watches. The burglars are supposed to be the men who robbed the Sixth National Bank some time ago.

Failure.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Chas. Deblman & Co., wholesale clothiers, Reade street, and in San Francisco, have failed. Liabilities are reported upward of $200,000. There manufactory is in Reade street, from which goods are sent to California. It is stated they owe $125,000 in San Francisco on accommodation paper and $70,000 for merchandise.

A Congressman Ill.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Congressman Clarkson N. Potter, thrown from a carriage yesterday, was seriously injured.

The Ringsters Settling.

The News says Gen. Keyser and Fields are to be allowed to settle with the city on the same basis on which the Sweeny case was arranged. It is just possible that Tweed may come under the compromise, but if he does it will be by refunding a much less amount than originally offered.

Train Robbers Foiled.

The out train on the Pennsylvania Railroad at Jersey City this morning, was boarded by a band of robbers who robbed and nearly killed conductor Thomas Downing of New York, engineer. The brakemen who attempted to help Downing were driven away with revolvers, but locked the ruffians in the car and escaped the police at Jersey City to be met at the depot. While the train was running 50 miles an hour, three of the desperadoes escaped by jumping out of the car window. The fourth man was arrested.

Republicans Surprised.

NEW YORK, June 11.—The Times' Washington says: The appointment of R. T. Smith to be collector at Mobile, Ala., occasions great surprise among Southern Republicans. This place was first offered to ex-Gov. Lee and Stanley Matthews. The ex-Governor declared in favor of his brother, Reuben, Auditor of Alabama, who has recently been appointed by the President. When this appointment was announced, Sherman was informed that Smith was a Democrat and voted for Tilden, and he was removed to make way for Smith, a strong Republican of influence.

The Little Boat Far from Shore.

NEW YORK, June 11.—The schooner twenty feet long, in which Captain Crapo and wife are sailing their way to Europe, starting from New Bedford May 28th, was spoken June 6th, in lat. 39°, long. 64° 22'.

The Isthmus Canal Project.

NEW YORK, June 11.—The World's London correspondent says it has been a matter of publicity in political and commercial circles that Minister Pierrepont has on many occasions during the past two or three months endeavored to draw the attention of important English capitalists to the feasibility of organizing a company to construct the long mooted Nicaraguan canal. With one gentleman, at least, a member of Parliament and a banker of unusual ability, Pierrepont is understood to have intimated that ex-President Grant would accept the presidency of such a company, provided it were organized by persons competent to guarantee the success of the enterprise. This conversation occurred some weeks before Grant sailed from Philadelphia, and the matter has since been mooted in financial circles. Pierrepont intimated that one American capitalist, a New York gentleman, heretofore prominently identified with several projects for uniting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans by an American canal, stands ready to take hold of the work as soon as commenced in England.

Vanderbilt's Steamship Purchase.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Vanderbilt, on being interviewed by a World reporter as to the former's buying a steamship line, said: "While in Europe I had all sorts of offers of steamers, but when we negotiate about such important matters we do not want to go into particulars. We don't, however, wish to control steamships, except for the purpose of protecting our other interests."

Journalist Missing.

Frank J. Otterson, a journalist of this city, has been missing for 10 days. It is feared he was drowned at Coney Island while bathing. He was engaged on the Tribune for more than 3 years, and was a particular friend of Greeley.

Scare Mag.

The New York World says the Princess Louise will proceed soon to take up her permanent residence at her father's court in Copenhagen. The alleged cause for this step is an unpleasant difficulty which has arisen and which already, it is said, is of a very serious character.

Ohio Politics.

NEW YORK, June 11.—A relative to Matthews is reported in Washington. A special says it is supposed he will confer with the President on the subject of the Ohio campaign, the programme for which gives Ohio Republicans unusual concern. They are said to fear that without the adoption of a definite policy on the subject of silver remonetization the party will be badly defeated in October.

Ferry Much Better.

GRAND HAVEN, Conn., June 11.—Senator Ferry is considered materially better, and he is out of danger now.

The New Orleans Collector.

NEW YORK, June 11.—The Tribune's editorial says the collector of the New Orleans custom house is a wiley reformer. He quietly handled 29 employes out of the back door and then went around to the front and inquires of the government in a loud tone of voice, if he has any remarks to make. The New Orleans collector must have heard the news from New York. At its present rate of speed it ought to reach San Francisco in a fortnight.

The Louisiana Marshalship.

CHICAGO, June 11.—The Inter-Ocean's New Orleans special says the suspension of Pitkin, without charges, simply to install Jack Wharton, who held the notorious Maddox blacklegislature, is regarded by Republicans here and many Democrats as a gross injustice. Pitkin is a native Whig and a leading Republican orator, a man of culture and Packard's warmest friend and champion. He organized the fall campaign and to him especially President Hayes owes his election. Wharton was a Mississippian rebel throughout the war. He had a little bureau under Warmouth, but never served the Republican party a whit until the last canvass, when he made a dozen speeches. The President asking Pitkin's resignation under constraint is a confession of maladversions. He says: "I have to confess I remove without cause. If you want the office to meet your bargains I refer you to your own civil service postulate." Pitkin is a frank independent young man, and when asked, six weeks ago by the President what he thought, he is said to have replied: "A hazardous experiment, first to Louisiana and South Carolina Republicans, and by recoil to yourself."

Governor Packard, who will not address Hayes, dispatched to Secretary Sherman some time since: "Pitkin's removal will be an outrage." It is supposed Butler's letter to Pitkin stating the President who held Pitkin responsible for its publication. A Nicholls legislator, who edits the German Gazette, affirms editorially that money, or rather Nicholls' warrants, were used to purchase the Packard legislators. The editor condemns the proceeding and all participants.

It is rumored Pitkin will soon take the stump in the North and disclose some disreputable transactions between the Democrats and Stanley Matthews.

Fast Train.

CLEVELAND, June 11.—The first fast train from Chicago on the Lake Shore railroad under the new schedule, arrived in Buffalo at 6:52 A. M., on time. Time from Chicago to Buffalo is thirteen hours and forty-seven minutes.

A President Murdered.

NEW YORK, June 11.—A letter from Paraguay says the President and Gilland, his brother, were murdered in a most barbarous manner. The President was at home with his family when he was surprised and killed by a band of assassins headed by Colonel Gerbura and commanders Morales and Godey. In a subsequent engagement with the troops Gerbura and Morales were made prisoners.

Extensive Strike.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., June 11.—One thousand one hundred employes in seven colleries of Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Cos. have struck against a reduction of wages.

Tilden and Hendricks.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Ex-Governor Tilden called on ex-Governor Hendricks this morning, and they will dine together informally at Governor Tilden's house, Gramercy Park, this evening. None but Tilden's household and Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks will be present. The reception to be tendered by the Manhattan Club to ex-Governors Tilden and Hendricks and to Governor Robinson and Lieutenant-Governor Dorsheimer to-morrow evening, will be a purely social gathering. The president's speech of welcome will be the only formal exercise of the occasion. During the reception a serenade will be given.

WASHINGTON CITY.

New Money Order Offices.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—From and after July 1st the following Pacific coast offices will be made money order offices: California—Anaheim, Arcata, Guadalupe, Portersville, Quincy, Riverside, Santa Ana, Somerville, Yuba City. Nevada—Cherry Creek, Genoa. Utah—Brigham city. Oregon—Junction City, Empire and Pendleton. A number of other money order offices will be established in the Pacific States and Territories on the 1st of October. The extremely limited appropriations made by Congress last year for printing blanks, etc., are already exhausted, which compels the department to defer necessary preparations for further extensions of the money order system until appropriations become available for the next fiscal year.

Land Offices in Nevada.

An order will be issued shortly for consolidation of Elko, Eureka and Pierce land offices into one land office at Eureka. Receipts of the offices to be discontinued are very insignificant in comparison with the cost of maintenance, and Commissioner Williams believes public interest can be very adequately accommodated by one central office. The Carson City office will be continued. No consolidations are contemplated for California or Oregon, but an order was issued yesterday for removal of the land office from Linkville to Lakeview, Oregon.

Personal Mention.

Senator Mitchell starts for Oregon in about a fortnight. Judge Lorenzo Sawyer has left Washington for California via his old home in the West. Justice Field and Mrs. Field depart for San Francisco on or about the 20th inst. Senator Jones is still here, revising proof sheets of his report in behalf of the majority of the silver commission, which, together with accompanying testimony, will make quite a voluminous, but extremely valuable book. He laughs at the various published reports of his conversion by his neighbor, Gen. Butler, or by other influences, to an advocacy of unlimited issues of paper money. All such reports, he says, are unauthorized, and adds that as a matter of fact he has never had any talk with Butler on financial topics. He still believes there is no prospect for a revival of business prosperity in the United States till the silver of the country is fully restored to its old function as money, and says that his recent sale of the Santa Monica railroad to the Southern Pacific Co. was prompted mainly by the conviction that for a considerable time to come all property will continue to depreciate and money will continue to appreciate in value.

Rather be a Doorkeeper.

Col. John Pope, now of Missouri but well known in California as captain of various Stockton and Sacramento steamboats, has announced himself as a candidate for the position of doorkeeper of the next House of Representatives, and is now here for the summer with flattering prospects of success.

Government Buildings.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—One of the buildings at the international exhibition at Philadelphia, erected and used by the U. S. government on the exhibition grounds, having been torn down on Friday last without authority from the government, will probably lead to difficulties with the finance board of the exhibition, as it is charged the building was destroyed by order of that board. The matter has been placed in the hands of the Attorney General with a request that he will proceed against the board to recover damages, also to have the offenders punished.

The completion of the new building for the State, War and Navy departments will result in an annual saving to the government of nearly $100,000 now paid for the rent of buildings occupied by the various bureaus of the departments.

The Commission on Canvass.

Mrs. Fashett has made much progress with her painting representing those who were officially connected with the electoral commission. The figures of the respective parties are painted from life, and portraits of the distinguished parties present as spectators of the scene are alike truthfully delineated. The Supreme Court has granted the use of their room to this lady for the prosecution of her great historical work.

Finland Finances.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—E. B. Elliott, well known statistician, has received information relative to the establishment of a single gold standard in Finland. The government has submitted to the legislative assembly of Finland a law proposing the establishment there of gold currency. Hitherto there has existed a paper currency in Russia, but strictly a silver currency. It is proposed to make the gold mark the unit of the new Finish coin system and to carry this change into effect as soon as possible, so that all government accounts from and after January 1, 1878, shall be kept according to the gold standard.

The Kinsfolk Dismissal.

NEW YORK, June 11.—The order of Secretary Sherman dismissing clerks from the Treasury department so that no more than one of a family shall be employed, has demoralized the whole department, and will prove to be one of the greatest frauds of civil service reform. It is only a pretense to make places for friends of officials, and it is openly proclaimed as such on the streets of Washington by Republicans. Yesterday, two women clerks who lost their husbands in the war were dismissed because they had a brother in the department. The Secretary, however, has not dismissed his brother, who is a collector of internal revenue in Iowa, or called on the department of justice to recall his nephew, who is marshal of New Mexico, nor made a raid on his other relations and that of his family who are in office.

List of Kin in Office.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The Times' special says the list of relatives employed in the Treasury department has been completed, and those to be discharged under the recent order of Sherman will be given notices to resign after June 30th. Sherman says this matter will be the subject of general complaint. For many years it has grown to be an abuse which demands correction. In the Treasury office are seventy employes who are related, and in the Internal revenue bureau over thirty. The weight of this large influence is said to be very great and always combined to maintain themselves in places and secure the appointment of other members of the same families. The Secretary says, in some instances this family influence has become so excessive that it controls some divisions of the department. He says he will, for the present, confine operations to blood relationship. Until it was recently published in the newspapers, he didn't know the Sherman family was so extensive. Except Sherman's nephew now in New Mexico, as U. S. Marshal, he has no knowledge that any other blood relations of his are in the public service.

CHICAGO, June 11.—The Journal's Washington special says Sherman has the President's unqualified approval in his removals from the Treasury Department on account of relationship.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Secretary McCrary leaves to-morrow for West Point.

The committee considering what amount of fractional currency circulating has been destroyed will make their report in a day or two. The approximation will probably fall below $10,000,000.

Promoted.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Jasper Smith, now consul at Funchlaland, formerly chief of the consular bureau of the State department has been promoted to take charge of the commerce agency at Nottingham, England.

Interest Payable.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Principal and interest of 5:20s of 1865 dated July 1st, 1865, being $15,000,000, will be paid at the U. S. treasury September next.

Austrian and Spanish Missions.

Upon Kasson's arrival in Washington the mission to Austria, which it is understood he would originally have preferred had it been vacant when he was appointed minister to Spain, was tendered him by the President and he has accepted it, and Jas. E. Russell Lowell has been tendered and accepted the mission to Spain.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Grant Invited to Edinburg.

EDINBURG, June 11.—The lord provost of Edinburg has notified Gen. Grant, through the American legation at London, of the desire of the corporation and citizens to make, in the event of Gen. Grant's visiting Edinburg, a public recognition of the high estimate they hold of his character, and the services which he, as President, rendered to the cause of general peace, particularly in the continued friendly relations between the United States and Great Britain. A reply is daily expected.

Commoner O'Keefe Dead.

LONDON, June 11.—John O'Keefe, member of the House of Commons for Dungaroon, is dead.

Gambetta's Advice.

PARIS, June 11.—At a banquet given to Gambetta at Amiens Saturday evening, he made a speech declaring the Republicans must not think of any other means beyond moral resistance for rescuing France.

The French Turf.

PARIS, June 11.—The race for the grand prize of Paris took place to-day; weather unusually fine, and an immense brilliant crowd attended. Race won by St. Christopher by two lengths; Jongoneliver 2d; Strachmo 3d; seven ran. Betting at the start 50 to 1 against Christopher, 7 to 4 on Jongoneliver, and 8 to 1 against Strachmo.

The French Crisis.

BERLIN, June 11.—A very serious impression has been caused here by articles yesterday and to-day in the National Zeitung, discussing the crisis in France, declaring that it is the ultramontane regime which alone could succeed. The republic is irreconcilable with European peace. These articles are said to reflect very faithfully the views of government circles here. Information that the French are already renewing their military preparations on the frontier is received with credit.

More Quiet in France.

PARIS, June 11.—In consequence of satisfactory assurances which have been given to the legitimatists, deputations of legitimatists will vote for dissolution.

German and French Amenities.

PARIS, June 11.—Prince Hohenloe, the German ambassador, gave the French government yesterday most satisfactory assurances. The government resolved to prohibit the projected plenary meeting of groups of the Left before the reassembling of the Chambers.

Important Row among Sailors.

BERLIN, June 11.—Official intelligence has been received from Yokohama, June 6th, that an affray had taken place between some men belonging to the German man-of-war Elizabeth and a party of French sailors. Nine of the latter killed and two fatally wounded. The provocation came from the Frenchmen. Steps have been taken to institute a searching and impartial inquiry into the cause.

SAW MILLS AT TACOMA.

NEW TACOMA, W. T., June 11, 1877.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I have noticed several items in recent issues of your paper concerning the Tacoma Mill Co., giving the amount of feet sawed per diem, etc.

There is also a mill in New Tacoma which in proportion to its size and power of machinery, turns out full as much lumber as the mill in the old town. The New Tacoma mill has one upper and one lower circular, and one edger saw, driven by a single engine; and yet in the month of May it turned out 490,688 feet of lumber.

Now when you take into consideration the fact that the old town mill contains in addition to its circular and resawing machines, two gangs, one of sixteen, the other of thirty-one saws, and is driven by five or six engines with an average capacity equal to the single engine used by the new town mill, you will acknowledge that the old town is not so far ahead of the new town after all.

SUBSCRIBER.

Orders have been prepared for the closing of the national armories after the 30th June, no appropriations having been made for the pay of workmen and other expenses.

THE WAR IN THE EAST.

The War Movements in Asia.

LONDON, June 10.—The movements on the Asiatic side are recorded last week, which showed that the Russian center and right wing had joined hands and advanced, the former on passes of the Soghanlu mountains and the latter on Olti and along the Chorurk valley. There must now be added the fact that the Russian center has obtained communication with the left wing, so that the eastern heads of passes between Soghanlu and Kiretch ranges near Midshiner are already in their hands, Mukhtar Pasha having withdrawn from his position between Olti and Bardiz and taken up a fresh line between Kapraki and Hassan Kaleh. Mukhtar has thereby improved his position, if he has sufficient force north of Erzeroum to check the advance of the Russian right wing. This, however, is very doubtful, especially as his position at Kalli, south of the Araxes, is threatened by the extreme left of the Russian left wing. A portion of the Russian left was detached at Joranos, probably with a desire to turn Mukhtar's strong position at Kapruki Araxes; for the descent from Soghanlu through the passes leading down to the valley of Araxes is steep and difficult as indeed is also the descent from the Kaspar range to Kalli, which is about a half hour's march from Araxes. If the Turks stand their ground, which they can only do if they have sufficient men guarding the northern approaches to Erzeroum, the plain of Araxes will be the scene of a sanguinary battle. The great length of the Russian line of communication, with the two fairly garrisoned fortresses, Kars and Batoum, in their rear, necessitates great caution on their part, because if the Turks had sufficient enterprise or available forces, they would long since have sent large reinforcements by sea to Batoum and endeavored to break through the circle which the Russians have been forming on the heights around the land side of that town. A vigorous effort in this direction might yet save Erzeroum. The Turks appear to be becoming hastily aware of this fact and some reinforcements have been ordered to Batoum, but the efforts in this direction do not appear very serious.

Russian Caution.

The secret of the plan of Russian operations on the Danube has been well kept.

Special correspondents who are allowed to accompany the Russian army are forbidden under pain of instant expulsion from the camp to send any details which might give a clue to Russian designs, and consequently there has been little news from the Russian side where operations have been confined to reconnoissances, by which the Russians are being fully posted on dispositions of the Turkish commanders. The same cannot be said for the Turks, who see a regiment in every Cossack, and shut their eyes in terror. They have not, like the Russians, any friendly population to assist them with information.

The disposition and preparation of the opposing forces lead to the belief that there will be heavy cannonading along the Danube, coupled with rails and feints in various directions, under cover of which there will be simultaneous attacks by Russian forces at Oltenitza, Rutschuk, Sistova and Turnmarguelli, with divisions at Kalafat and Ibrail. It is not considered probable that anything of importance in the way of crossing the former will take place for the next week. Whatever may be the other points at which crossing will finally be attempted, Rutschuk seems particularly unlikely to be unmolested, as on possession of Rutschuk will depend the command of the railway, which is of greater importance to the Russians. In reference to the report which states that another crossing is confidently expected at Hirchova, with a view of gaining the short line railway running from Tchernavoda to Kustendji. Any attempt at an effective resistance could probably cause such an attempt in force to be abandoned, as the march through fever-haunted Dobrindscha ought to be as rapid as possible. There are two Turkish gunboats in the mouth of the river Lorn and two at the mouth of Scanti.

Torpedoes in the Danube.

A telegram Saturday night announces that two Turkish monitors, which had been prevented from ascending the Danube by torpedoes, placed off Hirchova, succeeded in extricating themselves and reaching Tchernavoda, thus furnishing an additional obstacle to any Russian attempt to capture the railway from Tcherfeavoda to Kustendji.

Turkish Defenses.

SILISTRIA, June 11.—It is reported that the Turks, by agreement with the railway company, have cut the dykes and flooded the Kustendji and Tchernavoda railway, and converted the hills skirting the road into a line of defense, extending from the sea to the Danube.

Caucasian Cavalry.

The large number of Caucasian horsemen assembled at Ritschuk are being equipped and put under the command of competent officers.

Trouble in the Turkish Capital.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 6, via ATHENS.—It is feared there will be a popular outbreak if bad news arrives from Asia. A coup de main for the restoration of ex-Sultan Murad is much feared. No boats are allowed to traverse the Bosphorus or Golden Horn after dark. The Grand Vizier and Safvet Pasha are very anxious to make peace before fresh complications arise. At a council held Monday last the Sultan himself proposed to negotiate for peace. The adverse counsels of Redif Pasha, however, prevailed, but if the Asiatic campaign proves disastrous both the Sultan and nation will sue for peace.

Turkish War Tax.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 11.—The chamber of deputies passed through to its first reading a proposal for a ten per cent. loan, repayable in twelve years. All taxpayers, proprietors, merchants and functionaries will be required to contribute.

Naval Operations in the Danube.

Hobart Pasha has taken measures for securing the Sulina mouth of the Danube, and for a strict blockade at Odessa.

News has just arrived of an encounter of six Russian torpedo boats and some Turkish iron clads at the Sulina mouth of the Danube. The torpedo boats were beaten off and three destroyed. Some prisoners were taken and one of the iron clads injured.

LONDON, June 11.—A special from Sulina reports that the reinforcements for the Turkish ironclad fleet are daily expected. After their arrival an expedition, of which the destination is kept secret, will sail.

A correspondent confirms the report that the ironclads drove off the Russian torpedo boats with loss to the latter.

The New Greek Ministry.

A dispatch from Athens asserts it is untrue that the Porte demanded an explanation of Greek armaments. On the contrary the Turkish minister has been instructed to express the satisfaction of the Sultan at the formation of the new ministry.

Why the Delay in Crossing the Danube.

CHICAGO, June 11.—The Tribune's London special says the cause of the delay in crossing the Danube lies deeper than is supposed. The Czar is simply waiting to get assurances from the British government that no interference will be made. He will not fight England unless forced to do so, hence his extreme desire to learn how far he can go without embroiling Great Britain. Count Schouvaloff was called to St. Petersburg and instructed to bear assurances to the British cabinet that the Czar's intention was not to obstruct the English interests in Egypt or Asia. Count Schouvaloff arrived here Sunday, and a special cabinet meeting was held. To-day or to-morrow the Czar will know the result and be prepared to act accordingly. It is not to be expected that the Czar has modified his plans of the campaign on account of his fears of England, but has sent Prince Gortschakoff to work, so by means of diplomatic promises England shall bind herself not to interfere. Prince Gortschakoff has in Beaconsfield a foeman worthy of his steel; one who can say more and mean less than any man of the present century. It is doubtful if the wiles of Russia will prevent to secure any advantage over England, who is already on the scent of blood, and begins to show gleaming teeth.

Education in Russia.

BERLIN, June 11.—A bill introducing a new system of public instruction in Russia has just been completed by a special commission. By the new bill the classical tendency of liberal instruction will be somewhat modified, while regarding elementary instruction, an advantage has been derived from American experience of the free school system.

Cretans Resolve on War.

ATHENS, June 11.—The Porte having finally rejected the demands of the Cretan assembly, the christian population of Crete are now firmly resolved to defend their rights by force of arms. A general rising is expected. The partial insurrectionary movement in Epirus and Thessaly are assuming a more decided character.

General War Notes.

RUSTSCHUK, June 9.—Cannonade from Turkish batteries near here has continued all day. According to latest accounts it was directed against large bodies of Russ an troops and Russian batteries on the opposite bank of the Danube, causing considerable damage.

VIENNA, June 11.—The Turks are collecting an army of reserve to the westward of Sofia. The garrison of Widdin is being reduced, part of the troops still remaining being detached to strengthen the army in the field.

LONDON, June 11.—The Danube is falling.

The Roumanian militia will be disbanded.

ALEXANDRIA, June 11.—The Turkish men-of-war to escort the Egyptian contingent have arrived. The contingent is expected to sail immediately.

ERZEROUM, June 11.—The Turkish headquarters with 18 battalions of infantry, 4 batteries and 500 Kurdish cavalry are established near Zerwin. The Turks hold strong positions commanding the Zerwin road. The prospects appear to be improved that Mukhtar Pasha contemplates attacking the Russian right wing in three separate columns operating from Zerwin, Erzeroum and another point.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 11.—The loan of two hundred million roubles, at five per cent., to be opened through a State bank, is under consideration.

LONDON, June 11.—The Bulgarian legion in Roumania numbers 10,000 men, half foreigners, especially Servians.

The insurrection in Sukum Kaleh is spreading.

Commanders are vigorously attempting to cut Russian communication.

It would appear the Russian points for crossing the Danube will be chosen east and west of Turkish quadrilateral, and that while the eastern column keeps in check Turkish forces massed in and around the fortresses, the western column will act as a field army.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 11.—Mukhtar Pasha telegraphs that the garrison of Kars made a successful artillery sortie and pursued the enemy.

Admiral Mustapha states that five Russian torpedo boats were destroyed in the attack on the Turk ships.

VIENNA, June 11.—The Danube suddenly rose yesterday, overflowing its banks. The rise was caused by melting snow on Carpathian Alps. This will again delay operations.

SOUTH AMERICA.

The Earthquake and Tidal Wave.

NEW YORK, June 11.—The Star and Herald of Panama, has details of disasters and destruction to-day, caused on the South Pacific coast by the earthquake and tidal wave of May 9th. The towns of Arica, Iquique, Ponta Delados, Isabellon, Pepica, Chanavaia, Enavillos, Tocopilla, Caila, Millones, Debolliva, Autofagasta and Chanera are nearly destroyed. About 600 lives were lost. The destruction of property is estimated at $20,000,000, confined mostly to the coast, although the town of Tarapaca, 23 leagues inland, and the villages of Pacamatella and Canchones far in the interior are more or less ruined. The shipping of guano from the southern deposits will be indefinitely suspended, as all facilities in the way of cauches, chutes, wharves, water condensers and buildings are swept away. The destruction of and damage to shipping has been very great and was attended by very serious loss of life.

At Molendo, the railway was torn up by the sea 800 feet, and at Ilo the railway is also in ruins. At Arica the people were preparing a temporary fortification to repel a threatened assault of the rebel ram Huascar at the moment when the roar of the earthquake was heard. The shocks were very numerous and caused immense damage. The sea was suddenly perceived to recede from the beach, and a wave from ten to fifteen feet high rolled upon the shore, carrying away all before it. Eight times was repeated this assault of the ocean, and four miles of embankment of the railway melted away like sand. Locomotives, cars and rails were hustled about like so many playthings and left in a tumbled mass of rubbish. The U. S. steamer Vatiree, stranded in 1868, was lifted bodily and landed two miles north of her old position. The cable buoy was moved a quarter of a mile northward. Merchandise from the custom house and stores was carried away five miles distant. The earthquake had leveled the custom house, rail way station, submarine cable office, hotel, British consulate, U. S. agency and private dwellings. Thieves began to rob, when the troops fired upon them, killing and wounding several.

Iquique, built of wood and cane tumbled down at the first onset. Lamps were broken and the burning oil spreading over the debris started a general conflagration. Three companies of firemen were instantly at their post, although it was difficult to maintain an upright position, shock following shock with dreadful regularity. To procure water the two best fire engines were stationed at the beach. Just then a cry arose—"The Sea, The Sea!" and the waves rushed in. The engines were carried away by the reflux and the fire continued unopposed. Three elements of destruction busy at one moment—fire, water and the earthquake. The affrighted people left the city to its fate, flying to the neighboring eminences. The fire destroyed a large portion of the town. The earthquake leveled nearly all the rest, and the water covered the ruins, which it took out in its reflux. The water condensers along the shore are ruined. An irreparable loss of Iquique is that no palatable water is found there

NORTHERN AND CENTRAL.

By those who study railway interests with a view to the future, the importance which our State is to assume as a principal factor in working out the railway and commercial system of the Pacific coast, is neither unrecognized nor undervalued. Nothing is more certain than that the Central Pacific Company will continue to be a great power in the management of the railway system of the Pacific slope. The vastness of its enterprises and the prodigious extent of its resources warrant this statement. Oregon must eventually be included in its plans. A State destined to so great a future will presently enforce recognition in quarters where it has hitherto begged attention; for the time is not distant when Oregon's population, wealth and trade will offer inducements which men engaged in railway operations cannot ignore. It will also be regarded as an advantage to be beforehand in so important a field. Therefore when one company shall begin to make actual preparations to occupy it, another will be stimulated to a similar undertaking.

A little attention to the present situation will render this statement clear. It is known that the Central Pacific entertains a purpose to build a road into Oregon. Already it has expended no inconsiderable sums in making examination of various routes toward Oregon from several points on its present line. Its engineering parties are again in the field this summer to prosecute the work. It is not supposed that this action indicates a design to begin construction at once. But it does evince a purpose to have the surveys made so as to be in readiness for work whenever occasion requires it. This occasion will be determined by the interests of the company, which in turn are likely to be affected largely by other and rival enterprises.

If the Northern Pacific can obtain a renewal of its land grant, or an equivalent from the proceeds of sales of public lands, so as to make it certain that this northern road will be built, it is not probable that the Central Pacific will make longer delay. This latter company will then feel the urgency of the situation and take action accordingly. Prepared then by its preliminary surveys to push ahead intelligently, it will be able to build a road into Oregon in advance, perhaps, of any rival enterprise. It has a short line compared with others; not exceeding 375 miles from Winnemucca to connection with the Oregon and California railroad. The energy of the Central Pacific would build this road within two years after the work was fairly begun.

But unless the effort to revitalize the Northern Pacific shall meet with success it may be expected that the Central Pacific will pursue its objects elsewhere for the present, and turn its attention hither only when leisure is afforded, or when the natural progress of events require it to take action.

The key, therefore, to the future is the renewal of the Northern Pacific land grant, or in the obtainment of a subsidy for a road from Salt Lake to the Columbia river. In all probability the former will be the easier to compass. On the Northern Pacific grant, or out of the proceeds of the lands, a road can certainly be built. If we secure this, so much is surely gained. Should it move the Central Pacific, in the way we have indicated, to push a road also into Oregon, we shall have competing lines, and opposite sections of the country will be opened and developed. Under this view it is clearly the interest of the Northwest to do all it can to help the Northern Pacific forward.

RUSSIA AND ENGLAND.

Russia, it seems, is not yet fully assured of England's neutrality. This embarrassment is again stated as a cause of Russia's hesitation on the Danube. No doubt it is a principal reason of the delay. It ought to be possible, however, for Russia to give England satisfactory assurances that any success that may be gained will not be used beyond the declared purposes for which she undertook the war. If Russia really intends to maintain good faith in this, it ought to be easy now to proceed in a manner that will not incite the jealousy of the power which she has most reason to fear. It was only a week ago that the London Times was contemplating without alarm the prospect of the destruction of Moslem power in Europe, and discussing plans of adjustment to be made thereafter. On great questions of national policy the voice of the Times is the voice of England; and the article of last week plainly implied that the British government would not go to war to sustain the Porte. It is worth while to reprint this extract:

> No nation will go to war to support that which cannot be supported. No real statesman will cling to a dead element in a system instead of looking for its living forces. We know that we must seek for that which is to replace the falling power. To this we cannot too soon direct our attention.

Utterances of the cabinet could hardly be more authoritative than the declarations of the Times. In the readjustment England will appear. But Russia, if she proceeds discreetly, will be allowed to strike down the Turkish power without opposition from England. Nevertheless the delay on the Danube is probably to a large extent the result of a desire to come to a definite understanding with England as to the readjustment, so that there may be no complications out of which collision might arise.

Gen. Beauregard's achievements in the war of the rebellion were not great. He became known as a rather vaporing fellow, whose real strength lay in writing bombastic dispatches. He is not cured yet of the habit of rodomontade. Eastern newspapers are attacking with merciless ridicule a letter he has written to his friend Blanton Duncan in which he tells how, if he were generalissimo of the armies opposing the Russians he would root his enemies from the Danube, roll back the tide of invasion, send a big flying column into the very heart of Muscovy, outdo all the achievements of Napoleon, and—to sum up in three words—make the Russian bear feel pretty sick. In doing the wind work of campaigns, nobody was ever able to beat Pierre Gustave Toutant Beauregard.

It is very evident there are many citizens who regard the political or partisan test for city officials as far-fetched and unnecessary. Expressions to this effect are not few, nor are they timidly uttered. A very large number intend to select for themselves the men whom they vote for. Party conventions cannot bind them. Character, capability, conduct, will be the test. In a strictly local election it is always possible to inquire as to the fitness of candidates; and a very proper inquiry it is, too. We are not preparing just now for next year's State election. That event will have wider scope and totally different objects. It will receive attention at proper time. Everything in its order.

A Sacramento paper reports a grain field of 100 acres in Yolo county, entirely consumed by fire, which caught from a camp used by emigrants to Oregon.

HARPER'S HALF-HOUR SERIES.—Although every judicious reader feels like entering an earnest or perhaps an indignant protest against abridgments of famous literary works, rightly holding that condensed editions of Ivanhoe, Robinson Crusoe, Gulliver's Travels and the Pilgrim's Progress are an abomination which ought to be cast into outer darkness along with abbreviated copies of Shakspeare's dramas and expurgated editions of Pope and Horace; yet there is a description of books which present a great topic in a brief and original form, and which have an acknowledged value. Such is the series known as Epochs of History, each volume of which may be called a separate essay on a great historical subject. Even more valuable is Harper's Half Hour Series. On several occasions recently we have spoken of Freeman's essay on The Turks in Europe, which constitutes one of the volumes of this series. Several additional volumes are now in our hands. An elegant essay by an Oxford Professor on University Life at Ancient Athens, presents in a comprehensive form a subject which is scattered over a wide range of literature that is little known or visited except by professional scholars. It is touched in Bulwer's Athens, in Barthelemy's Travels of Anarchasis, and in the elaborate works of German scholarship. This Enlish essay may be said to fairly comprehend them all. Important epochs of English history are treated in eight volumes. The first presents a view of early England, up to the Norman Conquest; the second treats of the growth of England as a Continental Power, embracing the period from the Conquest to Magna Charta; the third is a history of the Rise of the People and the Growth of Parliament; the fourth deals with the Tudors and the Reformation; the fifth relates the Struggle against Absolute Monarchy, from the accession of the first James to the revolution which brought in the third William; the sixth gives an account of the Settlement of the Constitution from 1603 to 1788; the seventh is a narration of the Course of England during the American and European Wars, and the eighth presents us a view of Modern England. We cannot easily speak too highly of the interest and value of this series of essays on the elements of English history. Furnished by J. K. Gill.

Thorough reformation of the civil service is not likely to be effected at once, nor in a single presidential term. In a country where politicians are so numerous, a distemper of long standing like this becomes deeply rooted and widely spread. It affects no small proportion of the people of the whole country. The federal patronage, let it be remembered, has been farmed out since the time of General Jackson. At the beginning of his first term Gen. Grant made an attempt to reform the evil. But public opinion had not been sufficiently formed and crystalized on the subject, and he failed. That he ought to have persisted is true. In this way his administration would have been a powerful auxiliary to the growth of public opinion. But Gen. Grant saw that the people were indifferent and allowed the politicians to have their way; so he did the same. After he had gone back and become fully committed to the old policy, the people gradually awoke to the abuses practised under it, and Gen. Grant was censured at last by some who didn't sustain him at first: President Hayes has the advantage of a riper public opinion. And though complete reform cannot be effected within a single term, yet if the country could have the benefit of four years of intelligent effort in this direction, a barrier would be established in that time which it would trouble the spoilsmen to break over under the next administration.

Yesterday, as we are informed, a call was drawn up and addressed to certain well known citizens designated therein, requesting them to meet and select candidates without regard to party affiliations to be voted for next Monday. It is stated that this call was about to be circulated for signatures. No doubt it will receive many. For ourselves we shall act just as many others are going to do; that is to say, we shall use the right of private judgment in the selection of persons to be voted for. Neither the work of a party convention nor of a non-partisan nominating committee will be held sacred on this occasion. Caucus is a dethroned king. No divinity doth hedge him.

WHAT EASTERN PAPERS SAY.

New York World: Gov. Stone's private opinion publicly expressed is that no jury in Kemper county can be found to convict the accused, and if this should prove to be the case it will clearly be his duty to his State to take other steps.

Boston Journal: This illusive policy of internal improvements looks to the increase of the national debt and taxation in a time of peace. No country can do this and escape ruin. The people of the United States are not going to enter upon that road with their eyes open.

Philadelphia Times: The implacable element in the Republican party is gaining strength notwithstanding its exclusion from the light; with careful bottle nursing the poor thing may be hearty enough to squall and kick with vigor before the extra session of Congress begins.

Louisville Courier Journal: The good men of America, North and South, want peace. The generation that sought to destroy the Union has passed away. The present generation is not responsible for the acts of the last. It is responsible for itself, and, with its responsibilities upon it, its purpose is to make a nation which shall be national, not a huddle of discordant sections and States, the rule being pitch or toss which shall persecute and cheat the other.

Jackson (Miss.) Pilot: We lay the responsibility of the slaughter of the Chisholm family and Gilmer on the Democratic party of Kemper county, and they were aided, abetted, and sympathized with by a majority of the Democratic party of the State. Yet they only want local self government. We commend the reading of this Kemper murder to the hand shakers and conciliators of the North, the Chicago Tribune and Stanley Matthewses, who have made interference by the general government impossible. As for the State authorities interfering—faugh!

Massachusetts is said to be the only State in the Union where imprisonment for debt is enforced. An effort was made at the last session of the legislature to repeal the law, but the conservative element, reinforced by the collecting attorneys, were too much for the reformers.

The Masons of Brownsville, Linn county, propose to hold a grand picnic in that place next Tuesday, June 19th. Rev. I. D. Driver, will deliver a Masonic address on the occasion. A cordial invitation is extended the public, and especially to all members of the Masonic fraternity.

A contract has been made with a Boston firm for a $30 000 organ for the Cincinnati Music Hall, and it is said it will be the largest organ in the United States, and one of the largest in the world.

OFFICE OF INSURANCE COMMISSIONER, San Francisco, Feb. 5, 1877.

I, J. W. Foard, hereby certify that I am Insurance Commissioner of the State of California, and have supervision of insurance business in this State; and as such Commissioner, further certify that the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company of California is a corporation properly organized under the laws of this State, and being in a solvent condition and possessed of a paid up capital of One Hundred Thousand Dollars, equal to Gold Coin of the United States, is authorized to do business in the State. And I further certify that, upon a personal examination of the books and papers of the said company at the close of the year eighteen hundred and seventy-six, its statement as of this date, and now on file in this office, was shown to be correct and true, the company being possessed of good, valid assets amounting to one million two hundred and sixty-four thousand eight hundred and thirty-six dollars and eighty six cents* ($1,264,836 60), and having outstanding liabilities, as defined by the laws of the State, amounting to nine hundred and sixteen thousand seven hundred and fifty dollars and five cents ($916,750 05), exclusive of the Capital Stock.

L.S. As witness my hand and official seal, the day and year first above written.

J. W. FOARD,
Insurance Commissioner.

[Extract from Report of A. J. Smith, ex-Deputy Insurance Commissioner.]

J. G. EDWARDS, Publisher Coast Review,

Dear Sir:—In pursuance of your request I have made an examination of the Assets and Liabilities of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company of California, as they existed on the 31st day of December, 1876, as shown by the books and papers of the Company, and as a result of such examination I beg to report as follows:

* * * * * * * *

| | |
|---|---|
| Total Assets, Gold | $1,281,847 59 |
| Re-Insurance Reserve, American Experience, 4½ per ct. | $866,031 49 |
| Claims for Death Losses | 28,700 00 |
| Due on Account Salaries and Rents | 2,019 02 |
| Total Liabilities, Gold | 916,750 51 |
| Net surplus to Policy-holders, Gold | $365,097 08 |
| Company's paid-up Capital | $100,000 00 |

The above is, I believe, a true and fair statement of the Company's condition Dec. 31, 1876.

In conclusion, I beg to say that I found the Company's business thoroughly systematized—its books and papers in excellent condition and neatly kept. Every facility was extended to me by all the officers and employees of the Company to enable me to make my examination thorough. Books, papers, and accounts were freely exhibited to me. There was no attempt to hold back or conceal anything. I am satisfied the Company courts the most rigid scrutiny. For courteous treatment, I beg to return thanks to the officers and attaches of the Company.

Respectfully submitted, A. D. SMITH.

San Francisco, February 5, 1877.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.—Yesterday afternoon a Chinese laundryman on the west side of Front street, between Morrison and Yamhill, was accidentally shot by a pistol in the hands of another John. The shooting occurred under the following circumstances: Several weeks ago a cousin of the Chinaman who was shot, arrived here on a vessel. He is a lad, and came from the mountainous regions of China. As may be supposed, the lad is very unsophisticated in the ways of "Melican" civilization. Since his arrival from Flowery Land the lad has been domiciled at the house of his cousin, the proprietor of the laundry. Yesterday the young chap came across a small pistol about the premises, which unfortunately happened to be loaded. Totally ignorant of the dangerous character of the weapon, he began to inspect it with that degree of curiosity which prompts a child to examine a toy. While engaged in this manner, carelessly handling the weapon it was discharged, the ball entering the body of the lad. It seems that his cousin, who was in the room engaged in ironing clothes, did not observe what the lad was doing, until the report of the pistol. The ball took effect in the left side of the Chinaman, and passing through his clothes it penetrated the flesh nearly across the abdomen. The laundryman thought he was dying. Celestial, and gave up to die. A physician was sent for who caused him to be removed to his office and soon extracted the ball. His injuries are not of a dangerous character, and he will soon recover, although it was a very close call. The lad was frightened nearly to death when he saw what he had done. It is safe to predict that he will be very careful in the future about fooling with firearms.

SEVERE ACCIDENT.—A young man named Whittle, who is employed at Smith & Co.'s mill, met with a very severe accident yesterday afternoon. Whittle was engaged in working about the circular saw when he met with the accident. He was sawing a piece of timber off, when the short end was caught by the teeth of the saw and hurled some distance with great violence. Whittle happened to be standing in a line with the course of the timber, standing in a line with the course of the timber, and was struck on the right side of the jaw. He was knocked down by the force of the blow, and had to be conveyed to his home. When last heard from he was experiencing much pain. However, it is hoped that the

His injuries are not of a dangerous character, and he will soon recover, although it was a very close call. The lad was frightened nearly to death when he saw what he had done. It needs to predict that he will be very wary in the future about fooling with firearms.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—A young man named Whittle, who is employed at Smith's mill, met with a very severe accident yesterday about the circular saw when he met with the accident. He was sawing a piece of timber when the short end was caught in the teeth of the saw and hurled some distance with great violence. When last heard from he was experiencing much pain. However, it is hoped that his injuries are not of a dangerous nature.

A VICIOUS CANINE.—There is a vicious canine kept at a saloon corner of Taylor and Second streets, which is in the habit of biting passers. The other evening, as Mr. Zan was passing the place, the dog came rushing out and bit him before he had time to act on the defensive. The owner should either kill the brute or keep it chained. If he fails to do either he is subject to prosecution. Mention is made of this matter so that the owner of the vicious dog may take some action to prevent it from running at large, and also put the public on their guard.

RETURNING THEIR THANKS.—The following note will require no explanation: "The boys comprising the base ball clubs of this city desire to thank Mr. Lloyd Brooke, through the columns of your paper, for the gentlemanly way in which he granted us the use of the lot on Eighth and Mill streets for the purpose of a base ball ground. As you so kindly published the petition we would be much obliged if you would return our thanks, as we feel under great obligations to Mr. Brooke. The boys say that they will always remember his good deed."

JAPANESE PERSIMMONS.—This office is in receipt of a small package of the Diospyros Kaki, or Japanese persimmon, from the seed depot of J. J. Trumbull, San Francisco. The seeds should be planted in a loose soil about three inches deep. The fruit is said to possess a rich and delicious flavor, and is a great favor among the Japanese. The plant it is said will grow as well in Oregon as in Japan, being as hardy as the wild persimmon tree of the Eastern States.

FINE WHEAT.—At the office of Hamilton Boyd can be seen a sheaf of wheat which is 7 feet high. This wheat was grown on the Hall farm in Washington county, and was taken from a 20 acre field of grain, of which the sample is only a fair average. Grain of similar rank growth can be found on several other farms in the vicinity of the locality mentioned.

DESERTER ARRESTED.—James Moran was arrested by the police authorities Sunday evening, charged with being a deserter, having escaped from Fort Canby, where he was imprisoned. An officer having arrived from thence he was at once passed over to the United States authorities, and will be returned to custody at an early day.

OFFICERS SELECTED.—The committee having the management of the forthcoming picnic to be given at East Portland Park on the 4th of July, has selected the following officers for that occasion: Grand marshal, Major E. Cahalin; president, R. B. Sinnott; reader of the Declaration, Sidney Dell, Esq; orator of the day, Dr. Paul M. Brenan.

NO PERFORMANCE.—A letter from George F. Tilbury, agent of the Opera Company, dated Albany, states that the company will not give a performance here on Saturday. This is to be regretted, as the opera is one many would like to hear. The letter did not state what the future intentions of the management are.

FESTIVAL.—The ladies of the Taylor street M. E. church give a strawberry festival at their church, in the basement, to-night. Coffee and tea will be served in addition to strawberries and cream, and a general good time is expected. Admission, 25 cents. No additional charge for refreshments.

FUNERAL.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Hicks will take place to day from the residence of the family at 2 o'clock P. M. All members of the Independent Order of Good Templars in the city are requested to meet at Good Templar Hall this afternoon at 1 o'clock.

EXAMINATIONS. — To-day examinations at Bishop Scott school will be as follows: 9 to 11, Geography, Mr. Grant; 11 to 12, English literature, Mr. Burton; 1 to 3, Higher Mathematics, Mr. Burton; 3 to 5, U. S. History, Mr. Woodward.

OREGON.

Wool sells at 20 cents in Jackson county.

Thos. Gale will take charge of the Ashland Tidings.

Five acres near the State Fair Grounds sold for $1,000 to a man from California.

Jackson county has let the contract for keeping the county hospital for one year, paying therefor $1,080.

In the necrology of the Oregon Pioneer Association, as reported in the "Transactions" just printed, we observe the names of J. C. Avery, Joseph Cox, and George Abernethy, but miss that of Ralph Wilcox.

Jacksonville Times: Next week, J. S. Howard, surveyor, will commence the permanent survey of the ditch for the Portland-Sterling Mining Co. The preliminary survey was 23½ miles in length, with a capacity of 4,000 inches.

Brugger's flour-mill, three miles from Hillsboro, was totally destroyed by fire last Friday night. The loss is estimated at $6,000, of which the State Investment Insurance Co. held $3,000. It is thought to have been the work of an incendiary, at present unknown.

The death of a chicken on Piety Hill, Salem, was the cause of an altercation between the owner and slayer thereof. Blows were delivered. Then the services of the city recorder were in requisition, and costs amounted to $20 40. Pugnacious Mrs. Van Pelt paid up, and no doubt felt better.

Salem Mercury: We have to chronicle the departure from the Chemeketa this morning of the Hon. Herbert and Lady Agnes Flower, daughter of the Earl of Fife, who have been visiting our city on their tour round the world. They are now en route to California, from whence it is their intention to proceed to Yokohama.

The following are the names of the graduating class at Monmouth this year, and the degrees conferred: Miss Nancy Springer, M. A.; Miss Lucretia Holman, M. S.; Miss Mary Churchill, M. S.; Miss Maggie Butler, M. S.; Jos. e Wolverton, M. S.; Mr. J. E. Fenton A. B.; Mr. H. J. Murphy, A. B.; Mr. J. F. Emmett, J. S.; Mr. A. P. Wolverton, B. S.

From J. Henry Brown, recording secretary of the Oregon Pioneer Association, we have a pamphlet copy of the Transactions of the Association on the occasion of the fourth annual reunion. It contains the address by Judge Boise, with a general account of proceedings and addresses by several other persons. It is a valuable document for preservation.

Our Salem correspondent writes: The Chadwick-Watkinds-Burch-Dearborn "unpleasantness" seems resting under a general armistice, but is liable to break out again with greater violence. Mutterings deep and threatening may be detected by the close observer as the distant thunder is heard by the sensitive ear. The new superintendent of the Penitentiary has employed a clerk not contemplated by law, and the auditor of accounts against the State is regularly paying his salary. The proper authorities should take in hand the matter of recovering such sums back, and preventing further similar expenditures. Rich disclosures are expected should the matter culminate in a suit, which would be a signal for several of them to "blow" on one another.

A widow lady named Mrs. Moore, residing at Hillsboro, committed suicide at her home last Friday evening. Morphine was the agency employed. She was not discovered until in a dying condition. Dr. Bailey was hastily summoned, who did every thing known to medical skill to save the life of the unfortunate woman, but unavailingly. An empty bottle which had contained the fatal drug was found in the bed. A short time ago it is said that Mrs. Moore had some difficulty with her son, who is a young man. This individual so far forgo his filial obligations and his manhood, as to administer a severe whipping to her, whom it was his duty to protect. The sense of humiliation and shame for the indignity, it is said, so prayed upon the poor woman's mind that she sought relief in death.

THE SEARCH FOR LANDS.

The annexed is from the Lewiston Teller of the 2d June:

The rise in wheat with the prospect of permanent navigation of the Snake and Columbia rivers has caused considerable attention to the prospective value of the wheat lands in this neighborhood, and many persons who have long been here are prompted to take the benefit of the liberal land laws of the government and make locations. Some pre-empt, some homestead, but the majority are seeking to make timber culture entries. The belt of land lying between this and Sweetwater seems to have great attractions for our town people, as they are near at hand and can be attended to as timber culture entries while the parties entering them can reside and do business in town. Some 15 new entries have been made on the above mentioned tract and more good locations are being viewed out for the purpose of being located. Much of this land is excellent wheat land and will require no artificial irrigation to make it yield from 25 to 40 bushels of wheat per acre. They are not well provided with water for domestic and stock purposes, although many claims can be found where springs and running water can be found the entire season. But no season has yet been so dry that they would not produce good crops of wheat by fall sowing. They will also grow the poplar and locust and other varieties of timber which in a few years will add materially to the value of the lands. The best of these lands are across the Indian reservation line near the brink of the canyon of Lapwai and Sweetwater, and some of our citizens seem to wish they were Indians that they might occupy them. Of course it is human nature to covet that we are forbidden to take while there is a plenty as good in other localities inviting the settler.

ACCIDENT AT SEATTLE.

On Sunday morning about half-past eight o'clock, a remarkable mishap occurred at Seattle—the falling of the coal bunkers of the Seattle Coal and Transportation Company, situated in the north end of the city. The wharf was built some years ago, but the demolished portion was an addition to it, and erected two years since. It held upon some 120 piles a large bunker or series of bins, capable of containing about 8,000 tons of coal. This they were in the habit of sorting, as they sold their nut coal or "screenings" to factories and steamboats in San Francisco. The structure was divided into six bulkheads; the two furthest outboard on the south side containing some three thousand tons, while those on the north side were empty. At the above named hour the citizens were startled by a heavy crash and the rising of a dense column of smoke. The great bunker had fallen, precipitating all the coal into the bay and leaving the wharf a mass of ruins.

The north side of the wharf was occupied by the favorite Oregon clipper ship Western Shore, and the south side by the company's ship Washington Libby, fully loaded and ready for sea. The Western Shore had just hauled in, and as the bulkheads fell to the southward she escaped with a parted spring-line. The Libby was less fortunate, for she had her bulkheads on the port side stove in, and received other damages to about $1,800 at least. It will cause a suspension of shipments from the the principal mine for some time to come. The Western Shore will probably go to Nanaimo or Departure Bay for a load, and the barks Aurgola and J. L. Bell (also of the company's fleet) will have to load at either the Renton or Talbot bunkers.

The cause of the accident was undoubtedly the irregularity of distribution of the burden imposed on the wharf. The tide was out, lower than had been seen before for months, and the piles were no longer braced by the water, which would support them. The total absence of any weight in the north bins, and the fact of a good breeze prevailing from that quarter also, caused the structure to careen to the southward, with the results already given. About ten minutes previously a car had capsized on the incline, and all the laborers went up to right it. While they did so, down went the bunker into the water and all escaped unhurt. The loss is about $20,000 in coal, probably $10,000 in damage to the wharf and considerable injury to the company, to say nothing of the detriment arising from suspension of their business for some time to come. It will not be rebuilt.

Murder Will Out.

A few years ago "August Flower" was discovered to be a certain cure for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint; a few thin Dyspeptics made known to their friends how easily and quickly they had been cured by its use. The great merits of GREEN'S August Flower became heralded through the country by one sufferer to another, until, without advertising, its sale has become immense. Druggists in EVERY TOWN in the United States are selling it. No one suffering with Sour Stomach, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion Low Spirits, etc., can take three doses without relief. Go to your Druggist and get a bottle for 75 cents and try it. Sample bottles 10 cents. Agents, Crano & Brigham, wholesale druggists, San Francisco.

The Following Certificates Speak for Themselves:

TO DR. PAUL M. BRENAN—

For the past year and a half I have been suffering from Nervous and General Debility, Kidney Disease, Loss of Flesh and Strength, dizziness in the head and a constant pain through the back and loins. I became so debilitated and broken down that I was unfitted for business. I have been to Victoria and all over the coast under medical treatment for the past nine months, without receiving any benefit whatever, and had almost given up hopes of ever recovering, until I came under your treatment, about seven weeks ago. From the very first your treatment seemed to work like a charm, and I constantly improved from the beginning. I have gained 14 pounds of flesh, and am now, thanks to your skillful treatment, perfectly well, and am able to return to my business on the Snohomish. JAMES KING.
Seattle, March 31, 1877.

To the People: I have been troubled with chronic Nasal Catarrh for years, the disease being so aggravated that there was constantly an effusion of matter pass up down into my throat behind the palate and down through my nostrils.

My nose became depressed between the eyes and swollen on each side. I was told by physicians that it was a polypus; that some of the blood vessels were involved and that the removal would endanger my life by hemorrhage. I became so bad that I made up my mind that I must have immediate relief or die.

As a last resort I applied to Dr. Paul M. Brenan, who, after a moment's examination, determined what to do. He said the nasal bone was involved, and diseased, and that there would have to be a portion of it removed. He at once removed the bone tumor containing the ulcer; also the diseased portion of bone and pituitary gland, and cured the catarrh. I am now perfectly well and as free from disease as ever I was in my life.
THOMAS D. MURPHY.
Seattle, April 5th, 1877.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN—Dear Sir: I take great pleasure in stating for the benefit of those who are afflicted with any chronic disease, that I am now a well man. For the past two years I have been under the medical treatment of different physicians, from which I have received no benefit. I have been suffering with general and nervous debility, a difficulty in my stomach, and at times dizziness and severe headache, almost incapacitating me for work. About three weeks ago I put myself under your care, and I can say with delight that I am cured and feel like myself again, after having partaken of your skillful treatment. To me now, labor seems a pleasure. I say this much, hoping it will be the means of attracting the suffering to you who can relieve and cure them.
Your's Truly, JOE K BALLARD.
Employed at Colman's Saw Mill, Seattle.

[I will not publish any cures performed by me unless by the full consent of the parties.]

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 12, 1877.

TO MORROW.

The setting sun, with dying beam,
Had waked the purple hills to fire;
And citadel and dome and spire
Were gilded by the far off gleam.
And in and out dark pine trees crept
Full many a slender line of gold;
Gold motes athwart the river swept,
And kissed it as it curved and rolled.
And sunlight lingered, loth to go,
Ah, well! it causeth sorrow
To part from those we love below,
And yet the sun as bright shall glow
To morrow.

The tide was ebbing on the strand,
And stooping low its silver crest,
The crimson sea-weed lay at rest
Upon the amber-ribbed sand.
Dash'd o'er the rocks and on the shore,
Flung parting wreaths of pearly spray,
Then fled away. Yet turned once more
And sent a sigh across the bay.
As though it could not bear to go,
Ah, well! it causeth sorrow
To part with those we love below,
Yet thitherward the tide shall flow
To morrow.

Two hearts have met to say farewell,
At even when the sun went down;
Each life sound from the busy town
Smote sadly as a passing bell.
One whispered, "Parting is sweet pain,
At morn and eve returns the tide";
"Nay, parting rends the heart in twain,"
And still they lingered side by side—
And still they lingered, loth to go.
Ah, well! it causeth sorrow
To part from those we love below,
For shall we ever meet or no
To morrow?

HARD TIMES.

I'd offer thee this hand of mine,
If thou but hadst the dimes;
But purses short and slim as thine
Won't do for sharp times.
I leave thee in thy wretchedness,
As one too poor to mate;
For love, you know, can only bless
When based on real estate.

THE UNCHANGED METHODS OF WAR.

Events of the present time make this article from the New York World interesting to general readers:

We are constantly hearing of the radical changes wrought in the military art by the great progress made in mechanical science during the last fifty years—the multiplicity of railways and telegraph lines, breach-loading fire-arms and long range rifle cannon included. These have so changed the art of war, we are told in many quarters, that it has now become something wholly different from that which was practised by Gustavus Adolphus, Frederick the Great and Napoleon. And Buckle went so far in his disdain of the soldier talent as to dogmatically declare that the intellectual reach necessary for the command of a modern army is to be regarded as much less than was called for in an Alexander, a Hannibal or a Cæsar. The same style of thought has popularized the false notion that progress in the appliances for transporting armies, and the improved weapons with which they are now provided, have made a radical change from the old recognized principles of the art of war; whereas, in fact, the force and bearing of these principles have really been intensified. M. Taiers, though a layman in matters of war, clearly understood this fact when, not long ago, he said: "War does not change. It is subjected to-day to identically the same rules which controlled it in antiquity." Even some military men have questioned the accuracy of this declaration, and were found venturing the assertion that the principles of military strategy must change with the times like all other things. But others, after all, had the correct idea, that the fundamental principles of strategy do not change and are not materially affected by railways or rifled cannon. Guichard remarked that "in spite of the change in arms and the discovery of powder, the military art of the ancients must always be the best school for officers." And here we may add that firearms and powder constituted in their day of first use a greater change in the weapons or appliances of warfare than any of the improvements of which we have to boast in our generation.

And that able and very recent military writer, General Lewal, has precisely stated the immutability of the principles of the military art. "They are wrong," he says in his "Etudes de Guerre," "who suppose that the invention of gunpowder, the perfection of arms, railways, steam navigation and electric telegraphy have wrought changes in those principles. They have absolutely not been in any way affected. The principles of Polybius, of Vigarins, of Arius, of Osmander, of Xenophon and of Elian are as excellent to-day as they were twenty centuries ago. Napoleon proceeded precisely as did Hannibal and Cæsar."

It is notorious that the great master of modern war, Napoleon, was as close a student of the campaigns of Cæsar as he was of those of Frederick the Great. The operations of both these illustrious soldiers he was constantly discussing from the modern point of view, with the conclusion that in his day, as in the times of Epaminondas and of Cæsar military operations were subjected to exactly the same fundamental laws; and it was essentially from the ancient masters of his art that he derived the cardinal rules of his military science. Consequently his most remarkable campaigns, as, for example, that of 1796, closely resemble the operations of Cæsar. As General Lewal has said: "Science alone cannot make an eminent general, but there never was a great captain devoid of science." We may add that no higher effort of human intellect is possible than that essential to plan a campaign and effectively handle that marvellously complex human machine, an army, ancient or modern. And whether the captain be Cæsar or Napoleon, the conditions are essentially the same.

On the other hand, tactics, which are to be distinguished from strategy, are constantly changing. But even here the changes have been less material than are generally supposed, if we define tactics to embrace "all the movements of an army on the field of battle or in the immediate presence of an adversary;" for there are certain cardinal principles of tactics which are of the same force to-day that they had at the battle of Mantinea; principles, however, which are very difficult to separate from those of strategy. But as a rule tactics are occupied with details or the minor grades of war. The Prussians triumphed, however, in the late war with France because of the matchless tactical excellence to which General von Moltke had brought the whole Prussian army—an excellence assuredly such as no other army had ever attained; an excellence due to the thoroughly scientific and practical training of the Prussian staff.

Before the present war in Europe shall have ceased there will be more than one illustration of the fact that the foundation principles of the science of war are immutable.

SOUND SENSE AND "SOUND-WRITING."

Richard Grant White is a writer who does many things acceptably. His essays on the uses and abuses of words abound always with valuable suggestions, which are often illustrated with curious learning. As a philologist he is not profound, but in the field of verbal criticism he has done much valuable work. One of his later articles entitled "Every-Day English," contains a paragraph which exposes the folly of those phonetic reformers who object to the old alphabetic construction; and is so good that we append hereto the principal portion of it:

These people are full of scorn and contempt for what they call the old ridiculous way of spelling, speaking of it as if it were a device, and as if the present relations of spoken English and written English were the result of a contrivance which had failed miserably. Now, the simple fact is that those relations are the growth of circumstances, a growth which was inevitable, and which, in the very nature of things is inevitable, and which would occur again were we to have, and—what is more important and even more doubtful—were we able to use, a new alphabet to-morrow. This the phonetic reformers do not see. We spell as we do, and much as our fathers spelled, because we are our fathers' children, and our children will spell much as we do because they are our children. We are our fathers' children mentally as well as physically, and the language of one generation is the offspring of that of its predecessor. You might as well attempt to cut men off from their progenitors in any other respect, physical, moral, or mental, as to sever rudely and abruptly the language, either written or spoken, of one generation from that of its predecessor. As well might you raise your puny phonetic voice to stay the stars in their courses.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

MONDAY EVENING, June 11, 1877.

Gold in New York, 105¾.

Legal Tenders in Portland—buying 94; selling, 95.

Silver Coin—1¼@5 per cent discount.

Locally we have no important transactions or changes to note in either financial or trade circles. Business generally is moderately active, and with the preparations being made to move the coming crop, merchants and shippers are kept busy. The spring trade so far has been fairly satisfactory and has resulted in leaving commercial affairs in a condition favorable for a prosperous career during the summer and fall.

The Wheat Market.

The obtaining of exact quotations for all kinds of produce in this market is not, as many would suppose, an easy task. This is especially true of the wheat market at this season of the year when the receipts are very light and uncertain. Prices have a wider range than usual, depending greatly on the wants of buyers, of whom there are but few who care particularly about holding small lots of say 200, 300 or 500 bushels. As a rule, leading buyers at this season have no ships to load and no large contracts to fill, and the market is without the wholesome competition which prevails when the bulk of the crop is moving. Were the various farmers of each neighborhood who have individually small lots of wheat on hand to bulk it at such times and put it on the market in larger quantities, say ten thousand or more bushels in a single lot they would find much more competition in the market, as leading buyers would consider that quantity worthy their attention, and if still larger might be justified in taking up a vessel for loading. The uncertainty of securing a cargo under the present system which farmers practice, of dribbling out their several small lots, effectually prevents this and the larger buyers at this date in the season pay but little attention to wheat solely because no large lots are offered. Any farmer who considers the question can see why shippers should pay a better price for several thousand bushels of wheat in one lot than if it was offered him in a dozen different places and on a dozen different days. The building of warehouses at various points on the rivers and railroads where a large portion of the crop is bulked, has been of quite as much advantage to the exporters as to farmers, and the more general their establishment becomes, if they are properly and economically managed the more remunerative will wheat raising and wheat trading become.

The outlook for wheat for the next harvest year is now a subject of paramount importance to the people of Oregon and though it is too early yet to make any safe prediction as to prices, the general feeling is that the average will be considerably above that of the year now closing. The assumption though, that the war in Europe is certain to keep prices going up and to sustain them at a very high figure is a very violent one, as the best authorities claim that without the entanglement of any other nations than those now engaged, the capacity of the countries which supply England, the great consumer, would be but insignificantly diminished. In other words, that Russia can furnish her quota of breadstuffs, notwithstanding the drafts which the present war makes upon the resources of her people. But aside from all effect which the war may have upon the European market, there are circumstances which render it probable that prices will be high compared with the past two years. These circumstances are, the present short supplies and condition of the growing crops in some of the several countries which furnish the aggregate stock for English consumption.

New York Market.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Markets generally open dull; flour has a better export demand and firmer except for English shipping brands on which buyers and sellers were 25 cents apart. The market closed strong. Wheat, shipping demand light but firmer, at 1c@2c higher. Corn steady and dull at 34@35¢ 20. Rio coffee very firm but quiet. Refined sugars steady for low but upper qualities are slow and weak. Teas dull, and new crop Japan at hand tending to keep buyers quiet. Dry goods rather more active and buyers from the far West, in anticipation of an advance on freight charges on the 1st of July, have been free buyers.

Philadelphia Wool Market.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—Wool scarce, firmer, new unwashed arriving freely and sold as fast as offered at quotations. Colorado washed, 17@27c, unwashed, 15@17c; extra and Merino pulled, 32@38c; No. 1 Keyser, pulled, 33@35c; Texas, fine and medium, 18@30c; coarse, 16@18; California, fine and medium, 18@26c.
